Your Consent

Please take a few minutes to review our Privacy Policy. By using this website, you are consenting to the collection, use and disclosure of your personal information as set forth in this Privacy Policy. If you do not consent to our use of your personal information as described in this Privacy Policy, please do not provide any information about yourself when you visit this website.

These Policies May Change

These Terms and Conditions describe the YWCA's current policies and practices with regard to the personal information we collect from visitors to this website. As our website grows or laws change, we may need to update or revise these Terms and Conditions. We reserve the right to update or modify these Terms and Conditions at any time, without prior notice, by posting the revised version of these Terms and Conditions on this website. If we modify our Terms and Conditions, the modifications will apply only to the personal information we collect after we have posted the revised Terms and Conditions on this website.

For your convenience, whenever these Terms and Conditions are changed, we will alert you by posting a notice on our home page at www.ywcapueblo.com for 60 days. If more than 60 days goes by between your visits to this website, be sure you review these Terms and Conditions to see if it has been revised since your last visit.

You may access the current version of our Privacy Policy by clicking on the link marked "Privacy Policy". This Privacy Policy was last revised on August 20, 2018.

What is Personal Information?

"Personal information" is information about an identified or identifiable individual. Your personal information may include, but is not limited to, your name, your address, and your E-mail address.

What Personal Information Does the YWCA Collect Through This Website?

The YWCA collects only the personal information you knowingly and voluntarily provide to us when you use this website, for example, the personal information you provide when you subscribe to a newsletter, add your name to our mailing list, complete a survey, complete an application to volunteer, or register for an event.

How Does the YWCA Use Your Personal Information?

The YWCA uses your personal information only for the purposes for which it was provided. For example, if you subscribe to a newsletter, we use your contact information to mail or E-mail the newsletter to you. If you apply to volunteer, we use information about your background, interests and skills to help you find the right volunteer opportunity. If you register for an event, we use the information you provide to process your registration. If you complete a poll or survey or send us comments or other information, we use that information to improve our programs, services and communications. We also use your personal information to respond to your questions and comments and to thank you for your donations.

The YWCA also uses personal information to compile statistics about visitors to our website, our donors, volunteers, and other supporters. These statistics do not identify you personally or individually.

If you provide us with your name and address, you may receive periodic mailings from us with news and information about YWCA and its programs and events or containing requests for your support.

Credit Card Transactions

The YWCA uses carefully selected service providers to process credit card transactions. When you provide credit card information through this website, your information goes directly from your computer to a server operated by our service provider. Our service provider uses your credit card information only to process your transaction and is bound by contract to treat all of your personal information as confidential. Although our service providers send us the information you provide when you complete a transaction (so that we know, for example, who has registered for an event and how to contact them), for your security, our service providers do not share your credit card information with us.

Does the YWCA Share My Personal Information With Others?

The YWCA shares the personal information it collects only with third-party vendors who act for or on behalf of YWCA. For example, when you register for an event, a third-party processes your registration on our behalf. These third-party vendors may need information about you in order to perform their functions. These companies are not authorized to use your personal information for any other purpose and are bound by contract to treat all of your personal information as confidential.

There may be some other, limited circumstances in which we may share or transfer information in our databases to an unrelated third-party, for example, to comply with a legal requirement or court order; in the event of a tax audit or other investigation; to investigate a possible crime, such as credit card fraud; to protect the security of our website and the integrity of our databases; if we reorganize or merge with another organization, or in some similar event. Whenever we share personal information with third parties, we take appropriate steps, by contract or otherwise, to limit the use and prevent the unauthorized disclosure of that personal information.

The YWCA does not, at this time, share its mailing lists with other organizations (except as described in the preceding two paragraphs).

Technical Information Collected Through This Website

When you access this website, we use standard web server technology to collect technical information, such as the name of your Internet service provider, its IP address, the name of your operating system (such as Windows® or Macintosh®), your browser type (such as Chrome®, Firefox® or Internet Explorer®), the length of time you spend on our site during a visit, the pages you visit, and so on. This information does not identify you personally, and we do not attempt to tie this technical information to any of the personal information you provide. We use this information to improve our website and make it more compatible with the technology used by our visitors.

Security

When you provide financial or credit card information through this website, the transmission is protected by secure socket layer (SSL) encryption. You must understand, however, that the Internet is inherently insecure and no website operator can guarantee that a website is completely secure. The YWCA does not warrant that this website is secure or “hackerproof”; you use this website solely at your own risk.

Links to Other Websites

This website may contain links to other websites owned and operated by the YWCA. It also may contain links to websites that are not operated by YWCA.

These Terms and Conditions apply only to this website, which may be accessed at www.ywcapueblo.com. It does not apply to personal information collected through other websites owned and operated by the YWCA, nor does it apply to third-party websites. Links to third-party websites are provided as a service and do not imply any endorsement of the activities of these third-party websites nor any association with their operators. The YWCA of Pueblo does not control these third-party websites and is not responsible for their data practices. We urge you to review the Privacy Policy posted on each website you visit before using the website or providing any personal information about yourself.

Information About Children

The YWCA does not knowingly collect personal information from children under the age of 13 through this website. If you believe that a child has provided information to us through this website, please contact us at 719-542-6904. Please give us enough information so that we can correctly identify the information provided by the child. We will use our best efforts to remove all of the information provided by the child from our system.

Refund/Cancellation Policy

The YWCA does not offer refunds for donations or gifts made online. Cancellations for registrations for events, classes, workshops, lectures, music concerts or festivals are based on the specific cancellation policy for that registration. Please refer to the Cancellation Policy for each specific registration and/or event.

Questions and Concerns

If you have any questions about these Terms and Conditions or concerns about the way the YWCA processes your personal information, please contact us at 719-542-6904.
